About

The series include thrilling filmed stories about adultery. Each episode is a finished story with the set-up, the climax and the upshot. These are structurally vertical series, linked by the character of Observer – a sexologist named Andrey, a brilliant expert in the field of family psychology. Andrey's collection is huge. It has stories to everybody's taste: absurd, tragic and sometimes funny ones. The variety of these stories make the series multi genre: here you can find a detective story, a thriller, a melodrama with comic elements etc. In each episode, Andrey has a new client. The client starts telling his or her story and then actors reconstruct the situation in the style of docudrama. Andrey appears in the episode two more times to give some additional details; his appearance is the turning point in the story. At the end of the episode, the sexologist sums up and evaluates the situation. Andrey's conclusions always have some practical tips – how to identify adultery, how to

About

These women can do almost anything for love: leave their families, move to another country, change their views, habits and even religion. Love ignores nationalities and religions. However, some women have to make a compromise to stay with men they love. An actor Marat Basharov's ex-wife Elizaveta Krutsko succumbed to his persuasions to take Islam. Her father vehemently opposed it, but Elizaveta and Marat had an Islamic wedding. A few years past, they divorced, and Elizaveta returned to Orthodox Christianity. Psychologists believe, that if one of the spouses changes one's religion just for the sake of his or her better half, such marriage is not tightly-knit. Each nationality and religion has its traditions, which are handed at genetic level. Eventually spouses may intrude each other's habitual lives. However, there are some happy couples, who were able to avoid religious contradictions in their relationships. For example, Maria Arbatova is happy with her third husband Sumit Dutta Gupta, the Prin
